

Piri Piri Chicken Co

Document published 28/10/2021

Introduction

We've all heard the great news. PPCC is officially coming back once and for all, stronger than ever. Please read this document with further details about the opening.

General Changes

As we plan to expand bigger than ever before, we also need to make some changes to help us with this development. There will be reforms to the staffing structure, changes to the games and graphics, etc. Any changes we make are optimised to the fullest potential in-order to have a positive impact of the business. Changes will open new opportunities for us to expand.

Concerns

With many members of the community being here from very early on, we completely understand the concern you have with these changes. However, there is absolutely nothing to worry about. Any changes we do make are not all permanent, some are temporary. We will ensure that the company ethics and lovely community always remain the same. When new ideas are suggested, we will ensure to cover all points of view in a debate.

Future

Currently, there are no exact dates for anything. We are constantly looking ahead and working hard behind the scenes to bring back PPCC for you. We appreciate all of the support from members that have stuck with us – thank you.

Written by,
Happy_our
For PPCC